And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

With both city and school elections Saturday we would like to remind you to vote. Even though there is no contest in the school race we feel it is important that you take time to vote and by all means you need to make your choice known in the city council election.

And do the election judges a favor—vote early!

Ellis West, city superintendent, has asked me to urge you to put your grass clippings in bags, boxes or sacks if you would like for the garbage men to pick it up. These men are having a hard time just making the rounds over the city because of all the wet weather and they just do not have time to pick up loose grass clippings out of the alley.

We nearly missed the story last week about Milton Jones being named to the AA Basketball All-State third team. We join in congratulating Milton on this one more of numerous honors he has received this season for his many talents.

Because we were embroiled in the hospital district situation in this space last week we failed to comment on the surprising ruling by the Supreme Court in financing public schools. We say surprising ruling because most school and public officials we had talked to had expected the Supreme Court to uphold the lower court decision.

Just about everything we had read or heard on the subject indicated that it was a forgone conclusion that the Supreme Court would uphold what had become to be known as the Rodriguez decision of a three judge lower court. This lower court had ruled that children of a school district with less property to tax were unfairly treated and their education was inferior to that given to children of a richer district.

About the most that was expected from the higher court was some guidelines to direct the Legislature in meeting this challenge to our education system.

And instead comes this landmark 5 to 4 decision that not only leaves our present property tax system intact but could well be a turning point in Supreme Court decisions. It is inconceivable that the old Warren Court could or would have ruled in this manner.

We can see three major effects from this ruling and the least of these is what it will do or won't do to our school system within the state.

It would appear to us that the most welcomed aspect of this latest high court ruling is their opinion that education is not a constitutional right. This follows year after year of decisions by this same higher court (but with different judges) that everyone has a constitutional right to everything.

Justice Lewis F. Powell wrote for the majority that, "Education is not among the rights afforded explicit protection under our Constitution. Nor do we find any basis for saying it is implicitly so protected."

In other words, Education like welfare and a lot of other things are things that we as Americans want to do for our people but are not things that the Constitution requires us to do. At least we would hope that the court would take the same view with welfare that it has taken with education.

For too many years now we have had this idea prevailing that the government owes everybody a living and maybe this is at least the first step in reversing this trend.

Another effect of this ruling that is most welcomed is not what it does but what it doesn't do. If the Supreme Court had upheld the lower court

Favorite Recipes

by Barbara Craig

From time to time several friends ask for a recipe that we enjoy in our home and I find the easiest way to do this is to include it in this column. The recipe in this week is one we discovered during a recent visit with relatives. It is very rich and delicious but conveniently served like brownies.

Readers who have recipes they would like to share are asked to send them to the Herald office.

Warm Weather Means Insects, Pesticides
Warmer weather means growing lawns and gardens. It also means insect pests on the scene, says County Extension Agent Kirby Clayton.

However, instead of applying a pesticide at the first sign of insect activity, use care in determining whether or not the pests are causing damage. Indiscriminate use of pesticides can be dangerous as well as expensive, points out Clayton.

Once the need for a pesticide is determined, make sure you obtain the right material for the particular insect species, emphasizes Clayton. The County Extension office can offer assistance in identifying insects and in outlining a control program.

Once you know what insect you're trying to control and obtain the correct pesticide, take some time to read the label on the pesticide container, urges Clayton. Then use the material as directed, and don't add or apply a dab more for good measure.

Pesticides will do only what they are prescribed for, so don't expect miracles, adds Clayton.

Apply pesticides in the early morning or evening when there is little wind. Avoid spraying when temperatures are high or when plants are suffering from lack of water. Spray a day or two after a thorough watering, but do not spray if leaves are wet.

Keep pesticides in their original containers and store them in a locked cabinet or room, advises Clayton.

Dispose of empty containers by burying them where they won't contaminate the water supply. Or wrap them in newspaper, crush them and place with other garbage. Do not burn pressurized cans.

Pesticide safety is just a matter of common sense, adds Clayton.

Remove Mistle Toe From Trees

There's still time to remove mistletoe from trees so that they will be free of the parasitic plant for the coming season.

In most instances mistletoe causes an unsightly condition and disfigurement. However, occasionally it can cause dieback and weakening of terminal limbs, points out County Extension Agent Kirby Clayton.

Mistletoe is frequently seen on live oak, post oak, hackberry, mesquite and elm trees. It obtains water and nutrients from the tree's conductive systems that would normally nourish the tree.

Control of this parasitic plant is often difficult because a portion of it is growing into the tissues of the tree, notes

Clayton. Just simply breaking the mistletoe off the limbs is not a satisfactory means of control as it will sprout at the point of removal and produce another clump of growth.

To satisfactorily control mistletoe, remove a chip from the host limb at the point of attachment. Treat the wounded area with a tree paint to keep out wood rotting organisms.

If mistletoe is on small limbs, remove the entire limb about one foot below the area of infection, advises Clayton. Here again, the wounded area should be painted with the tree paint.

Mistletoe can be spread by birds as well as by other means. Presently there are no chemicals cleared for use that will effectively control mistletoe, adds Clayton.

NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

there could not have been any end to the problems that would have been created.

If the Court had ruled that all school districts in Texas had to be equal then it stands to reason that states would have had to be equal and this could have only meant complete federal control. By the same token, if education must be equal then what about police and fire protection, garbage collection and the hundreds of other governmental functions that are now funded locally.

The reason we believe that the effect on our school system is not as important as some of the other effects of this ruling is that it is likely that we will see our educational system change to meet this new demand. But it will come from legislation and not from court rulings.

The need for tax reform is apparent, said Powell, "but the ultimate solution must come from lawmakers and from the democratic pressures of those who elect them."

The Texas system of financing education needs some improvement but changes need to come from Austin and not from a federal court.

While the court has upheld the local property tax system as a means of financing our schools, it is becoming increasingly obvious that some other method must be found in the near future to supplement this source of revenue if our schools are to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

CRUISE IN THE OFF-SEASON

Although most people prefer to take their cruise during the peak of the season for all the glamour, excitement, and crowds it offers, others enjoy the quiet and restfulness of the off season cruise. Tourists are not present in such great numbers; interesting places can be visited more leisurely and at greater length.

Some people prefer to pray only when they are in church or at some great public gathering where the prayers are led for them. But our Lord said to pray in the "off-season." He said, "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." The real joys of prayer are truly found when you are praying alone with God. The scripture says to be instant in season and out of season.

The church would encourage you to pray both in church and at home. Prayer can uphold, support, and strengthen our churches, ourselves, and our country.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

FFA Planning Volleyball Tourney Here

The Future Farmers of America will sponsor a volleyball tournament Apr. 26, 27 and 28 in the local gymnasium.

The Hamlin Jaycees have sponsored a volleyball tournament for several years but will not be doing so this year. The FFA event will follow the same plan as the Jaycees used.

Adult and student divisions in both men's and women's teams will be conducted if entries justify the four divisions. Milburn Wink, FFA advisor said.

Teams should organize now and contact Wink so that preliminary plans can be made for the tournament. Cost will be $10 per organization to enter. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Proceeds will be used to finance FFA activities through the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Haught of Dallas are parents of a boy Jeffrey Michael, 7 lbs. 5 oz., born Mar. 30. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Haught of Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Knoerzer of Dallas.

Philosopher Says the Meat Boycotting Housewives Aren't Going Far Enough

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One may have some housewives mad at him this week, but that's his outlook, not ours.

Dear editor:

Excusing the New York woman who wants to control the price of meat by freezing the price of cattle on the hoof, a job ranchers will be glad to turn over to her, considering the fact that on any given day at any cattle auction prices range from maybe 15 cents a pound to 80 cents, depending on the various classes of animals, their size, age, condition, and the shrewdness of the buyers and the willingness of the sellers with or without the prodding of the banker who holds the mortgage, as I say, to pick up this sentence again, excusing that woman, the rest of the housewives who are demanding a boycott on meat till the price comes down are on the right track but they don't go far enough.

For example, the price of lumber has shot up and I'd like to see the women picketing lumber yards and urging everybody to go without 2x4's.

Or take gasoline and oil. You know they've gone up and the only answer is to walk to your next boycott assignment, or if you do drive to refuse to change your oil.

And of course with some of the big city banks raising interest rates, everybody ought to stop borrowing money. Farmers aren't the only ones who ought to be taught a lesson. This will put a burden on some people because, with the price of meat as high as it is, it's all they can do to keep up the payments on their campers and speed boats.

In fact, if you think about it, there's nothing whose price hasn't gone up recently, from hospitals to colleges to tractors to cow feed to eggs to bread to cars to telephones to taxes, and if the housewives of this nation really want to whip inflation they ought to form a line around the entire outer boundaries of the country and declare a national boycott of everything. Yours faithfully, J.A.
